

GROBELSKI Bartłomiej

Entrepreneurial personality well versed in business development strategy, promotion and marketing across public and commercial landscape of the health sector. Results-oriented, focused decision-maker with unique business intuition in the business creation area. Leader and initiator of many projects in the R&D and Health sector, expert at the numerous conferences and trainings in the field of intellectual property protection and technology transfer.

8-years' experience as a Head of Centre for Innovation and Technology Transfer, the core Medical University of Lodz department, responsible for technology transfer based on interdisciplinary research teams. Passionate about helping health start-ups to grow. His mission is to develop incubation and acceleration infrastructure and build top-notch Medical Incubator and Accelerator.

As a CEO of SPV UMED Ltd aims to support the processes of innovation transfer by building effective cooperation between the University and business. Actively representing of The Polish Association of Centers for Technology Transfer (PACTT) and The Polish Universities Companies Association (PSC), in which he contributed as a President in 2015-2017. Well experienced in health management sector with excellent hard and soft skills, setting long-term goals to achieve short-term results.

Leader of many projects in the R&D and Health sector, expert at numerous conferences and trainings in the field of intellectual property protection and technology transfer. Activity leader in the outstanding and unique European EIT Health Bootcamps including Smart Ageing Camp and E-Boat – accelerator for start-ups with eHealth solutions. Mentor of numerous dynamically developing start-ups.